Commentary on the Lutheran Book of Worship-Philip H. Pfitteicher 1990 Background on the development of Lutheran Book of Worship and its suggested usage.

Where Earth Meets Heaven-John G. Strelan 2007-04-23 Revelation presents a view of reality different from the usual: the world according to God. It reveals that, since the death and resurrection of Christ, God is creating all things new. The relevance of the book for today is that it challenges Christians about where their ultimate allegiance lies. Revelation shows that it is in worship—where earth meets heaven—that Christians still participate in God's judging and saving activity in the world. This commentary uses language that is simple and clear, avoiding technical terms. It gives an explanation of the text that is sound and reliable, easy to understand without being superficial.

Eucharistic Epicleses, Ancient and Modern-Anne McGowan 2014-05-15 This book explores the theological and textual connections among ancient and modern epicleses, primarily through analysis of a selection of epiletic texts in contemporary Western eucharistic prayers and the theological principles that shaped them. Liturgical scholarship on the Spirit’s role in early liturgical prayers and texts conducted during the twentieth century contributed to the language and pneumatology of contemporary eucharistic prayers in the Western Christian tradition. More recent considerations of these ancient sources suggest ways to articulate and incorporate a more expansive understanding of the connections between the Holy Spirit and the Eucharist into the eucatalogical repertoire of various ecclesial traditions.

Caring through the Funeral-Gene Fowler 2020-01-24 Caring through the Funeral is a guidebook to take pastors through the complete funeral process, from the moment the call is received to the weeks following the funeral. More than just a “how-to,” Caring through the Funeral uniquely addresses the funeral process from the perspective of pastoral ministry—of pastoral caring throughout the time of mourning, from the death through post-funeral grieving. Many times the funeral is the most momentous means of pastoral caring for the bereaved, and often it is the only time that the church has an opportunity to care for the family and friends. Gene Fowler explores what pastors go through at each stage of the funeral process. Both descriptive and conceptual, Fowler’s practical advice, solid pastoral and theological grounding, and case illustrations take pastors and student pastors through many issues: - the language of loss—the vocabulary ministers need for this caring ministry - bereavement and grief - pastoral care of family members - pastoral care of non-family members, including groups within the church and community - the funeral as worship service, including a comparison of our Protestant liturgical books and the elements that comprise a Christian funeral - practical issues of planning the service, including sample services - funeral service as means of caring for the bereaved and as a rite of passage, and the interrelationship between funerals, mourning, and grief - how funerals often launch mourners on a spiritual journey - questions asked by the bereaved - role of resurrection in pastoral care - pastoral care after the funeral

Word of Life-Timothy J. Wengert 2019-11-05 Renowned Reformation scholar Timothy J. Wengert explores the genesis of Lutheran biblical interpretation by tracing the early work of Martin Luther, Melanchthon, and other Wittenberg exegetes. Their new approach led them to view Scripture in terms of “law and gospel,” to read and translate the Greek and Hebrew text, and to focus on a theology of the cross and justification by faith. Luther and his colleagues found God working in the last place anyone would reasonably look: on the cross, in weakness and foolishness. Wengert demonstrates how these key historical and theological perspectives can be demonstrated in preaching, reflection, and teaching today. Using brief examples of preaching The Seven Last Word of Christ and reflecting on Luther's work on a variety of Psalms, the author provides a path for students and pastors alike to plumb the depth of Lutheran hermeneutics in their preaching and teaching.

The Lutheran Commentary, Vol. 5-Henry Eyster Jacobs 2018-01-20 Excerpt from The Lutheran Commentary, Vol. 5: A Plain Exposition of the Holy Scriptures of the New Testament The treatment of the Gospel of St. John as presented in this volume of the Lutheran Commentary is in some respects different from the volumes which have thus far appeared. In the introduction the points referring to the Isagogics of this Gospel have received somewhat fuller considera tion. The writer endeavored to give a brief survey of those features which are peculiarly characteristic of the fourth Gospel, and to show its relation to the other Gospels, the three Synoptists. The question of authorship has also been taken up in a brief summary, furnishing the reader with the principal testimonies in favor of the Apostle St. John as the Writer of this Gospel. This has been done without a full review of the battle that may be raging about this point, but in such a manner that the lay-members of the Church may have within easy reach, a short survey of the main question, and the leading arguments on the positive side. In view of the overtowering importance of the fourth Gospel for the faith of the Christian Church, we did not feel justified in passing this point in silence. The exposition of. The Gospel itself does not propose to give a detailed explanation of the words of the text, in a series of exegetical annotations from verse to verse. Kretzmann's Popular Commentary on the Book of Psalms-Paul Kretzmann 2021-02-20

Judges-Mercedes L. Garcia Bachmann 2018-07-02 A woman called blessed for killing a Canaanite general; another called “Mother in Israel” for leading troops into war; several other mothers absent when their children need them; a judge, Deborah, with a proper name and a recognized place for public counseling; a single woman, Delilah, who seduces and conquers Samson. The book of Judges features an outstanding number of women, named and unnamed, in family roles and also active in society, mostly objects of violent dealings between men. This volume looks not only at women in their traditional roles (daughter, wife, mother) but also at how society at large deals with women (and with men) in war, in strife, and sometimes in peace.

Popular Commentary on 1 and 2 Kings-Paul Kretzmann 2021-02-10 Paul Kretzmann's Popular Commentary on the Whole Bible was written in the early twentieth-century, and continues to be used by both pastors and laity today. He writes on each book of Scripture from a Lutheran perspective with an emphasis on practical and theological application of the text. John Theodore Mueller writes about this work: “Its purpose is to open to the common people the portals to the marvelous treasure house of God's wisdom, not in order that people might admire the golden portals, but that they might adore the divine fullness of God's wisdom and truth. The Popular Commentary is a Lutheran commentary composed in the spirit of Luther, whose one paramount desire was to have all people read and understand, believe and live the Bible. It is a commentary such as Luther would have written, had he lived in America today, a commentary of the Bible and for the Bible.
